Governance

1. General Data Protection Regulation: more information

The General Data Protection regulation comes into force on 25 May. The Friends House Data Safety Group has added 3 new documents to the data safety web page at www.quaker.org.uk/data-safety: an expanded guide to the GDPR, a guide to data audits and a template data audit form.

datasafety@quaker.org.uk

Please spread the news about this information on the GDPR to Friends in the meetings.

Children and young people

2. Volunteers available to support local, area and regional work with young Quakers

If you are short of a volunteer or two for your event or activity with young people, then help is at hand. Over 30 Friends have offered to be part of a database of volunteers who are willing to offer their service on local and area event teams. All will have been referenced and DBS checked. If you require help in this way please contact Lucy Sam, Children and Young People's Officer, detailing the help you need. Requests will be forwarded to those who are on the database asking who is available to support your event or activity.

Climate, the environment & economic justice

4. Confident Conversations Skillshare – for Friends active on climate & economic justice

Saturday 21 April, Friends House, London

Quakers are increasingly aware of the injustices of neoliberal capitalism, and in recent years have become familiar with what a new economy might look like. And Quakers understand the urgent need to protect the planet from environmental harm. But how do we turn this knowledge into conversations that contribute to change? The aim of this skillshare is that you go away feeling better equipped to have productive conversations with your MP, councillor, employer, the media – or anyone who holds power to change things for the better.

Deadline for applying is 3 April.

Quaker Week

6. Speakers for Quaker Week 2018

29 September – 7 October 2018

The theme for Quaker Week 2018 is 'Room for more'. Sharing food and spiritual nourishment is central to this year's campaign. As Quakers we offer a table rich with good things, but recognise that it could be more inclusive. There is room for more at the table, and we value everyone who might sit at it. How can we let people know that there's a space for them? You can now book your speaker for Quaker Week. We can offer speakers on a wide range of subjects. It is worth thinking carefully about the topic, and whether it will encourage people from other parts of your community to attend.
