‘To the House of Commons.’

The petition of people of this country declares:

- That we welcome proposals to raise the school leaving age to eighteen;
- That we regret that young people joining the armed forces at the age of sixteen currently commit themselves to a period of four years service beyond their eighteenth birthday:
- The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Government to bring forward legislation to delay enlistment of recruits into the armed forces until after their eighteenth birthday.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.
