Support for meetings

1. Want to host a hub or a Local Development Worker?

Last month's mailing included a blog outlining the recent decision by Woodbrooke and Britain Yearly Meeting Trustees to build on the successful Vibrancy in Meetings pilot programme with a plan to place a paid Local Development Worker (LDW) within reach of each Quaker community within five years. There are also plans to experiment by setting up a trial staff hub outside of London or Birmingham. We'll soon be inviting expressions of interest from Quaker communities interested in hosting either an LDW or a pilot hub.

Look out for more information in the September mailing or at

Quaker Week

2. Quaker Week 2019

Saturday 28 September – Sunday 6 October 2019

This year's theme is 'Quaker Stories'. What story can you tell? What is the story of your Quaker community? What are your favourite Quaker stories? If you're on social media use #QuakerStories to share your story and find inspiration. Quaker Week posters will be delivered to clerks by mid-August.

Sanctuary Everywhere

3. Sanctuary Everywhere 2020 appeal

The Sanctuary Everywhere programme supports Quaker meetings to create a culture of welcome in their communities for people seeking refuge in Britain. This work is due to end in December 2019, but – with almost 100 meetings now signed up – we want to keep it going throughout 2020. We have already found around £25,000 of the £76,000 needed for the extension – can you help to make the difference? See poster for details on how to give. You can give online at <https://cafdonate.cafonline.org/10147#/DonationDetails>

Climate Action

If your local meeting has been thinking about how to support climate action or move forward with your work on the new economy, this project could be for you. QPSW is hoping to develop a project employing coordinators in three different places to bring together local groups contributing to the zero-carbon transition, with local meetings playing a hosting role. See flyer for more information.

8. Stop the Arms Fair this September

September 2019, mainly London & some events across Britain

The international arms fair, DSEI, is setting up shop in London in September 2019, to export war and conflict around the world. When we play host to one of the world's largest arms fairs, war, repression and injustice start here. Let's stop it here.

Friends interested in opposing the arms fair can see the flyer on activities by Roots of Resistance and an additional flyer about the vigil (both are available at www.quaker.org.uk/mm-aug19).

Young Quakers see the information in item 7 above.

Quaker Activist Gathering

11. Quaker Activist Gathering 2019

2 November 2019, Friends House, London

This is a free event where Quakers and Quaker-curious people gather together for an intergenerational, restorative and invigorating day, focused on how we do social action. Exploring our shared lives of worship, witness, testimony and activism, we will build connections, reflect and share stories, to bring our faith deeper into practice.

You might be new to Quakerism and putting your faith into action, or you might be tired and seeking the spiritual nourishment of being with others who care as deeply as you do – there will be something for everyone.

Did you know you could receive this mailing electronically?

Would you like to receive the email alert to let you know that the monthly mailing material is up on the website? This can be instead of or as well as the postal mailing.

For many meetings, receiving the mailing on paper will be the best option as it is not always practical to print out locally. Please also consider how you will be inclusive about circulating the information to Friends. You can change your preference at any time by contacting Gaby Scott: 020 7663 1045, gabys@quaker.org.uk.

Many thanks to the Friends from Luton & Leighton Area Meeting who help to collate this mailing.
