

Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) in Britain

At the Yearly Meeting in London at Friends House and online, 28 April to 1 May 2023, and additionally on 1 July 2023.

Substantive Minutes

Saturday 29 April: 9:30–12:30, Yearly Meeting Session 2

Minute 17: Releasing Energy and Revitalising Quaker Communities

We have heard ministry about changes in our ways of working that have been planned over years, including Symud Ymlaen, the changes in organisation in Wales and the Southern Marches to release Friends' energy to follow our leadings. We have heard too about changes made quickly in response to the Covid-19 pandemic. We recognise a need, now, to discern what change was just for that time, and what we will carry forward with us.

Change is inevitable. How we respond to change will determine whether our meetings are as full of vitality and welcome as we want them to be, and how we move forward gyda'n gilydd – together, as a community. We need now to be intentional about change, supported by our Quaker disciplines. We are led to work in new ways that are more inclusive and sustainable into the future. We recognise that inclusion means looking at a web of different needs and different gifts, continually listening and improving.

When we serve our meetings in a committee, or by serving coffee in a meeting house, we are doing the work before us; but we are also building community by working together. Working together is a form of Quaker worship and a way in which we can come to know each other in the things that are eternal.

We do need to discern which jobs and committees are still needed. Simpler structures could release energy for following the leadings of the spirit. It can help to think about the actions that are needed, to see what structures best support them. Let us bring creativity to our consideration of governance. Let us turn to a power greater than ourselves that will enable us to ground our work in deep spirituality, work joyfully, and reduce the risk of dutiful Friends becoming burnt out. Working more collaboratively and sharing our learning can enable us to reduce the overall burden of work. Simplifying our structures will enable us to share the gift of our worship and witness more expansively.

We are grateful for all the work that is done on our behalf. Each of us will have times and places where we are actively working, and others where our role is to uphold the Friends doing the work, trusting that they are listening to the leadings of the spirit. All of us must remember to breathe, to give space for the spirit to move.

Saturday 29 April: 14:30–17:30, Yearly Meeting Session 3

Minute 21: Looking at Central Committees

We are a people of faith forever in transition. To be faithful is to be open to change; to be open to the leadings of the spirit.

When Meeting for Sufferings and Britain Yearly Meeting Trustees agreed our Strategic Priorities in 2018, they considered the priority of 'simple structures and practices'. It followed that trustees started to look at our central structures to consider whether there were opportunities for simplification.

We recognise that the time has come to look anew at our structures, including our Central Committees. We ask our trustees to consider what form a new committee structure should take. We ask them to form a group who will consult widely with affected committees, with Meeting for Sufferings, informal groupings of Friends and Friends more widely. We ask them to bring proposals to a future Yearly Meeting for our discernment.

We need this work to be bold, imaginative, careful, and joyful. We need it to look deeply into how to connect with those Friends who have not yet been involved with service at a national level, some of whom feel excluded or disconnected from that work.

At the heart of our structures is Yearly Meeting, which includes all Quakers in Britain. We are led to create new structures for central work that are more sustainable and more inclusive, and which provide wider opportunities for service, including by Friends who do not have a single, long term, geographical base.

We ask that this work bears it all in mind; the state of where we are, our falling numbers and our ageing membership.

This may lead us to address some of the problems that we face as we think of the stewardship of our resources between us all. This is one step, with more slow, careful steps to follow.

Sunday 30 April: 10:30–13:00, Yearly Meeting Session 4

Minute 23: Truth and Integrity

We began our discernment by hearing powerful prepared ministry about how Friends in the United States and Canada have taken forward the long-standing Quaker commitment to Truth and Integrity in the face of a decline in standards in public life which is reflected around the world.

In our preparation session we heard about the ongoing work of the Quaker Truth and Integrity Group.

Seeking truth is a practice of staying open to what we don't know and haven't experienced, and to mistakes we have made or are making. When we open ourselves to this listening we find ourselves on "kinder ground".

We need to listen widely, including to young Friends for their concerns and advice, and to amplify the voices of people from oppressed groups and seek to "increase the proximity between us".

How are we hearing prophetic witness today? How might we practise our public presence as Quakers? How can we name and claim our Quaker identity and act as public truth tellers?

We look forward to exploring these questions at a future Yearly Meeting and ask Yearly Meeting Agenda Committee to consider how we can continue our exploration of Truth and Integrity at Yearly Meeting 2024.

Monday 1 May, 9:30–12:00: Yearly Meeting Session 6

We recognise that a change in the relationship between Yearly Meeting, Britain Yearly Meeting Trustees, and Meeting for Sufferings is needed to address the overlap in current roles and responsibilities. We ask Meeting for Sufferings to bring to a future Yearly Meeting session proposals for what that change could look like. We are seeking changes that could release energy within our corporate structures, emphasise the importance of spirit-led discernment, allow wider and more diverse participation in decision making and improve communication between individual Friends, local meetings, area meetings and Meeting for Sufferings.

We ask Meeting for Sufferings to work with the Recording Clerk; its Group to Review Yearly Meeting, Yearly Meeting Gathering and Meeting for Sufferings; and Britain Yearly Meeting Trustees.

We must trust our spirit-led nominations and appointment process and the Friends we have asked to serve on our behalf. Trust within our community and between our different bodies is a vital part of making our structures work.

Monday 1 May, 14:00–16:00: Yearly Meeting Session 7

Minute 41: Receipt of minutes from the Youth, Children and Families Programmes

We have received and heard read minutes from the groups of the Youth, Children & Families Programmes of this Yearly Meeting as follows:

New Shoots (0–2 year-olds)

We enjoyed the theme of truth and joy through sensory exploration and new experiences.

We found it difficult for our parents to leave us with strangers, but our helpers did lots of things to make us feel safe.

We took the toy food in and out of the box, played with playdough and read stories; the story Handa's Surprise let us taste some different fruits.

We enjoyed the magic balloons over the air conditioning unit.

We played on the balcony with the Fox Cubs and found the Light Explorers in the park. We enjoyed bursting bubbles and chasing birds.

We ended our sessions with worship flowers opening in water and light changing bunnies.

Fox Cubs (3–5 year-olds)

Our theme this weekend has been Truth and Joy.

Our favourite story has been What We'll Build by Oliver Jeffers.

After listening to the story we built our own special shed. We put in the shed all the things we love the most.

Over the weekend we have had a wonderful time building love and taking care of each other.

We visited the library and saw books high up on shelves and there was a ladder to reach them. We saw a book made by Quaker children a very long time ago. It was so old we couldn't touch it.

We went to the park, lay on the grass and gazed up at the blue sky through beautiful pink blossom and green leaves.

We read our favourite story again and acted the bit where our enemies were kept outside the wall, but then we let them in for the tea and biscuits. We love them all.

We heard a story about a girl who wore her hijab for the first time. She went to school and some boys said some unkind words. Sometimes hurtful words need to stay with the person who said them.

We worshipped together and then thought about God, using floating paper flowers; lights; singing and candles.

We rested in our shed where we felt safe and were quiet.

Today we go home tired, but with good memories of time with our Quaker Friends. Things we have made and collected in our journal bags will help us remember.

Light Explorers (6–8 year-olds)

We are the Light Explorers. Over the weekend we were thinking about Truth and Joy.

We wanted to have a safe, quiet place so we built quite a big den made from bamboo, rope and fabric. In the den we had boxes, pillows, books and fairy lights. On Saturday afternoon, on a hunt for Truth in nature, we went to the library to look at old drawings of plants and animals and we learnt a lot about books from the past. We coloured in animal pictures and folded animal origami and did some creative writing. Back in our room we made the animals and characters move with stop motion animation. Playing fantastic parachute games with the spiritual adventurers was fun and some of us popped through the middle of the parachute.

On Sunday we went to All-together Worship where we coloured a picture of a house and drew the things that make us feel safe and joyful. In our room we started our session together with reading, drawing, colouring and playing games. We built the things we would like to see from Lego and playdough and worked together. For snack we had biscuits, oranges and loads of apples and juice. After lunch we went to the park and played in the sun. Some played football and some built a den for one Friend's soft bear.

On Monday morning after listening to Giraffes Can't Dance we made our own kind of music with instruments and had a joyful time dancing and drumming.

In our epilogues we danced like circles in the night and blew amazing bubble mountains. We will go home having had lots of fun together and made lots of new friends.

The Spiritual Adventurers (9–11 year-olds)

Over the weekend, 15 Spiritual Adventures came together to explore Truth and Joy and that Quakers do more than just sitting down.

On Saturday morning, we came together for the first time to make new friends and catch up with old friends. We played games to get to know each other and also went and used the parachute with the Light Explorers in the George Fox room. We spent some time exploring the theme of Truth and Joy and heard the story 'The Weight of Nothing' which made us think about how lots of tiny things can have a big impact. In all of our sessions over the weekend, we had lots of snacks, we journalled or crafted what we had been up to and we also worshipped together and did the Quaker Stretch.

In the afternoon, we were joined by a member of the Epistle writing committee while we watched 'The Boy, The Mole, The Fox and The Horse' and talked about being able to find joy and love even when you might be feeling lost, lonely or sad. We also thought about how being your true self is much easier than being fake to fit in. As it was going to be May Day on Monday, we learnt a Morris dance that we did to music. We then went to the Library and learnt about all the Quakers that wrote about nature and animals and practised making our own nature sketches or origami flowers and were given wild flower seeds that we could take home to plant.

On Sunday, many of us went to the All-together Worship where we listened to the story 'What We Build' and decorated a sketch of a house with things we like. When we went back to our room we learnt about Elizabeth Fry and watched a dramatisation of her life and work. We then talked about exercising truth to power and how it is never too late to do the right thing. After this, we talked about nominations, selected our nominations committee and we were also visited by the Recording Clerk.

After lunch, we had a meeting for worship for business, where we nominated and appointed writers and readers of this minute. We had fun doing this in the Quaker way. We looked at joy and the different ways there can be joy. We took turns reading the book 'The Jar of Happiness' and talked about how joy can be what you bring for yourself, what you can bring for someone else and what someone can bring for you. We enjoyed a story about Zacchaeus and how kindness can come from unexpected places and can change you as a person.

On Monday morning, we were visited by Ellis Brooks to talk about Peace Education. We then thought about what brings us inner peace, outer peace and global peace and how we can bring about peace when we go home and back to school. One of us is already a peer mediator in school. Later on, we went to Tavistock Square and looked at the Peace Garden.

We have had a really fun weekend full of happiness and truthfulness with some tiredness. We have thought about how to have joyful experiences and not to go round telling lies so that we can be truth filled and life proofed. When we go home, we will take lots of fun memories of new friends in our cosy glows, and with a Quakerly spring in our step. Thank you 😊

Young People's Programme (12–15 year-olds)

To all Friends everywhere,

This year, 29 young people aged 12–15, with five adult helpers met at Felden Lodge in Hemel Hempstead to consider the theme: 'Truth and Integrity'. Over the weekend, several thought-provoking workshops made us think about how we sustain our truth and integrity in an immoral world.

In our first workshop of the weekend, Tanya Hubbard helped us explore how we speak our truths in different situations through the use of drama and movement, along with some silly chicken impressions. After a tasty lunch, Ellis Brooks used animals to help represent different styles of negotiation and conflict, from the forceful shark to the accommodating teddy bear, and many in between. This helped us think about which strategies are most useful in different situations.

On Sunday morning, the TikTok legend @rhiannonbookgeek helped us think about which communities we can feel confident in, and comfortable to share our truths with, along with some smaller group discussions. She then joined us in worship. Our chat rooms helped us explore themes further, hearing experiences of our adult volunteers. Some of the young people attended the Swarthmore lecture via zoom and heard Esther Loukin talk about her experiences with using the law to create change. She came to our final speaker session and we explored different types of activism. She was encouraging about us taking action for ourselves and the importance of taking action together.

Our three base groups gave us the opportunity to reflect on speaker sessions and discuss these issues further. We also used this time to play games and get to know each other better.

We also had lots of opportunities for fun over the weekend, competing in challenges, and group activities outdoors, such as rugby and capture the flag, along with lots running around in the forest. Additionally, we had a quiz involving the creation of some awful Quaker jokes. We were also able to entertain each other on Sunday evening with our very own Quaker talent show which included: dance routines, singing and origami.

We have had a full-on weekend of laughing, talking, playing, eating and reflecting. We worshipped by ourselves and joined the All-together Worship – an all-age national blended meeting for worship on Sunday, ending with an epilogue of affirmations on Sunday evening.

We've had a weekend of reflection on our own integrity and left with a better idea of how to maintain our own truth in trying times.

Minute 42: Epistle of Junior Yearly Meeting

We have received the epistle of Junior Yearly Meeting held 1–4 April 2023, which reads as follows:

To all Friends everywhere,

Between the 1st and the 4th of April 2023, 46 participants and 10 adult volunteers gathered at the Frontier Centre in Northamptonshire to consider the theme:

“Speaking Truth to Power: How can we release this energy to bring light to our worlds?”

Our weekend was filled with fascinating explorations of truth, power, and integrity. As young Quakers, we experienced the importance of building community and forming meaningful connections. Throughout the weekend, we participated in Base Groups, which provided a familial atmosphere that enabled us to quickly become comfortable with one another. This allowed us to let loose, laugh, and truly be ourselves.

We met daily in worship and felt enriched by the ministry shared, which was a vital part of our community. Through song, movement, and quiet reflection, we strengthened our spiritual connection. Together, we explored the subjectivity of definitions, the importance of discernment, and the balance between faith and practical action. The final epilogue ended with a bonfire, where we shared our gratitude for one another in an incredibly sentimental way.

Our community was further enhanced by a range of activities and events, including a Ceilidh, outdoor activities run by the Frontier Centre, and a quiz. The weather improved as our community strengthened, encouraging us to utilise the outdoors as well as the indoors.

Our theme was introduced by our Arrangements Committee, and their interpretations of it so far were shared. We ended with reflective questions including “How can we create positive change from intense feelings?” We contrasted these thoughts with actions by listening to the adult volunteer team sharing their experiences of speaking truth to power through different lenses. This included restoring historical voices, smashing a Banksy and speaking Truth to Power as part of the trade union movement.

Our guest speakers included Paul Parker, who shared reflections on the work of Margery Post Abbott. This discussed Everyday Prophets, and how young Quakers who are often called ‘the future’ of Quakerism can hold this prophetic role as Quakers now. The session enabled us to appreciate the importance of speaking with love. Jude Acton encouraged the group to explore what speaking truth to power meant to us as individuals as well as members of communities. We shared in groups how we might do this in our everyday lives. This thought-provoking session raised a multitude of questions that the community was very eager to engage with. This contributed to making our Quaker meeting for worship for business so powerful.

As we reflect on our time together, we are filled with gratitude for the connections we formed and the insights we gained. We depart with a renewed sense of purpose and a commitment to speak truth to power in our everyday lives.

We wish to share the final paragraph of our minute, as we leave this community ready to seek the balance between speaking truth and hearing it in our lives.

“To speak truth to power is as much about knowing when to use our voice as it is to use our silence. This balance is quintessential, if we only speak we have no chance to listen inclusively but if we only listen we cannot bring about change. This balance is the answer.”

Minute 44: General Epistle

We send loving greetings to Friends everywhere.

Cyfleuwn gyfarchion cariadus i Gyfeillion ym mhob man.

Quakers of all ages gathered for Yearly Meeting at Friends House in London, Hemel Hempstead and online. Preparatory sessions took place online in the week before, and Junior Yearly Meeting met earlier in April. An All-together meeting for worship was held with many local meetings and individual Friends joining virtually across Britain and beyond.

We meet at a time when existential issues face us both within our aging and numerically diminishing Society and in the wider world. These require urgent responses. Quakers can show leadership and offer counsel that will help our nations in matters of the degradation of public truth, the climate and ecological crisis, and divisive public commentaries around people's identities and associated rights.

How best can we achieve this? We are a people of faith, always in transition on an exciting path of collective and personal exploration. We seek and follow the eternal Truth of the Spirit, which has many names, remaining open to new leadings and also to the possibility that we are mistaken. Our faith requires us to practise our testimony of truth and integrity in all that we say and do.

Kindness has a powerful impact and we hope to offer caring support to all, including those with whom we may disagree. Speaking from a faith perspective can carry weight. We try to let our lives speak and have a ministry of presence, but can we speak out more as Quakers?

We can be a listening presence, creating a “kinder ground”, alongside speaking truth in public places and contexts. We are called to witness truth-telling, accountability, community-building, and to give messages of hope. Speaking truth to power with love is a ministry, and is vital in a time when truth is often corrupted.

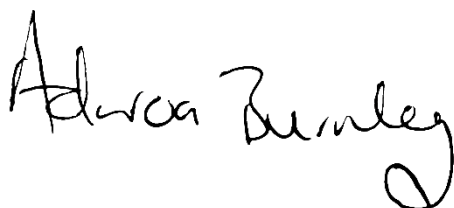

Our Quaker community has many voices, and we are upheld as one by the power of the Spirit. We all have a part to play, need to collaborate and trust those doing work on our behalf. Are we open to all voices, and how can we develop structures to engage all Friends through active listening? Ensuring true access for all in our community is a work of love. This may require us to move outside our own comfort and experience others' frustrations and discomforts.

Yearly Meeting is the all-encompassing body of which we are all a part and where we are most diverse. It takes on the big questions – Who are we as Quakers? Why are we here? What are we led to do? At times we have been mystified, even baffled. However, we discern a need to simplify our structures to make them more transparent, to release energy for practical ministry. We seek intentional change, led by the Spirit, to help our community to thrive as we move into the uncertain futures that dance before us.

Building on our tradition of radical spirituality, we need to be courageous, imaginative, careful, and joyful. We seek corporate structures that are agile, simpler, more inclusive and support equality. Big questions are being asked about how we take the Society forward, with ways of working that meet our practical needs and have spirit-led discernment flowing throughout.

This work will continue into 2024, and ways to involve Friends across Britain Yearly Meeting will be developed, arising from our discernment thus far. As a Society, we must go in whichever direction we are led, so that the Truth may prosper.

Saturday 1 July: 10:00–12:45, Yearly Meeting Session 8

Further to minutes 27 and 30 of this Yearly Meeting, in which we asked Meeting for Sufferings to bring proposals for change to us, we have heard how the Friends working on this are approaching this work.

We agree that proposals which meet the following criteria would adequately reflect our wishes for the way forward:

Changes need to:

- continue to place spirit-led and informed discernment at the heart of all decision-making across Britain Yearly Meeting
- ensure our structures and our processes are agile and capable of translating our discernment into action
- release energy within our Quaker community
- clarify the lines of accountability; explain clearly the roles and responsibilities of different bodies; meet the requirements of charity law, good governance practice and Quaker Gospel order
- promote greater diversity and wider participation in our decision-making
- improve communication between all Friends involved in our local meetings, area meetings and all the different parts of our structures.

We look forward to hearing more about this work at Yearly Meeting in 2024.

Further to minute 21 of this Yearly Meeting, we have had an opportunity to offer further guidance to our trustees who are arranging for a group to review our structures.

We have reflected on what we value about our structures and processes. We value the massive commitment of committee members to understanding the work, and to making decisions in a spirit of worship as well as with full information. We value the strong relationships that can be built between committees, including trustees, and the staff working on our behalf, and the opportunities for spiritual accompaniment in these relationships. We value community and continuity, so that those discerning in committees are deeply grounded worshipping communities. We value those relationships within and between committees and extending out from them, that are built on time spent together, and we value the wonderful decisions that can be reached with spacious opportunities for prayerful discernment.

With multiple reviews and changes taking place at the same time, it is essential that the final recommendations do not contradict each other. Communication between the reviewing groups must continue, to mitigate that risk. We are also conscious that the two Central Committees conducted extensive reviews recently, and some of the resulting changes may still be settling.

We are glad to hear of the intention to reduce complexity and ensure that our structures and processes are easy to understand. We hope that pathways for Friends to become involved in central work can be clarified, to remove the perception, or the experience, that there is a distinction between “central Friends” and “grassroots Friends”. It is essential to ensure that there is wide representation on committees of the centrally managed work, from local and area meetings as well as diversity of identity and experience. Nominations committees can only work with what they've got: we are reminded to bring Friends' gifts to their attention.

We recognise that the spirit will continue to move among us, and that our structures need to be flexible enough to allow us to follow our leadings.

We have not reached clarity about the necessity for change. We will need to continue this discernment in the future. We uphold our Friends as they consult widely. We look forward to hearing more about this work at our next Yearly Meeting.

Minute 53: Concluding minute

There being no further business for the Yearly Meeting, we separate, hoping to meet again at Friends House, London, from 26 to 30 July 2024, should nothing occur to prevent.
